EXCITING CAPTURE OF A BURGLAR.

HE STOLE TROUSERS AND STABBED HIS PUR-

SUERS.

Some bloodshed and a great deal of excitement attended the capture of a burglar in Essex-st. yesterday morning. Two men were stabbed by the burglar and men from a dozen tenement-houses joined in the task of heading off the thief and overpowering him. "Ikey" Halestok, the son of a tailor, living on the top floor of the tenement-house No. 104 Essex-st., was awakened at 3 a. m. yesterday by a thief in his room. The burglar had taken possession of the youth's trousers, the article of most value to be found in the room, and was about to retrace his steps to the rear fire-escape. The youth waited until the thief had started to descend the fire-escape. Then he raised an urgent cry for help that roused all the inmates of the house. Occupants of the adjoining houses were awakened also when "Ikey" leaped out of his window and shouted over the head of the retreating burglar.

"Stop him! Police! He was got me!"

Abraham Levy, who has a bath place on the ground floor of the adjoining house, No. 102, heard the youth shout, and he ran into the rear yard with his helper, Paul Mika. Just then the burglar climbed over the fence and fell into their arms. They tried to hold the burglar, who struggled desperately to get free. Several Hebrews in night attire were running into the yard when the burglar drew a knife and began to jab his captors with it at short range. His arms were not free, and the blows were light, but the knife cut Levy's wrist and inflicted half a dozen slight wounds on the hands, arms and body of Mika. Then the burglar was knocked down and disarmed, and a dozen excited Hebrews tried to tie him up. At once as he lay on the ground, the burglar was surrounded by a crowd of men. The yard was full of men when Policeman Galligan, of the Eleventh-st. squad, was called from the street. Then several Hebrews rained blows on the prisoner, and the officer had some difficulty in getting him to the police station without broken bones. The wounds of Levy and Mika were dressed by an ambulance surgeon at the station, and were said to be serious. The prisoner said he was John Harth, and lived at No. 344 East Forty-ninth-st. Later he said his name was Herz. He was committed for trial at the Essex Market Police Court yesterday.

DR. SENNER IN DOUBT ABOUT THE NEW LAW.

It would not be a pleasant thing for the titled foreigners who come over here to be asked if they are paupers, if they have ever been in prison, and if they have ever been guilty of a crime involving moral turpitude. Yet the new immigration law might be construed to mean that alien cabin passengers on steamers coming to this port must have their names entered on the manifest of the vessel, and that the names of the steerage passengers are entered.

According to the new immigration law alien passengers must answer nineteen questions, some of which are of an extremely personal nature. Dr. Senner is a little in doubt about the law, and yesterday he wrote to Superintendent Stump, of the Immigration Department at Washington, asking him for a construction of the law. The steamship companies say that if the alien cabin passengers must answer the nineteen questions they will be subjected to much inconvenience and mortification.

MODRIC AND HIS MAYOR ON GOOD TERMS.

Again Matto Modric, the Croatian, who was sent back to Europe because the immigration authorities found that he was a common beggar, has been heard from. He returned to his native village, Polanec. Yesterday Dr. Senner received a document from the mayor of the village which certified that Mr. Modric was a wealthy citizen, that he had never been a pauper, that he was of good moral character, eminently respectable, and a man who had never been guilty of the slightest act of dishonesty. The document was a most voluminous one, and was weighted down with great quantities of red tape and a seal as big as a butter dish. Modric was the man who was a beggar in New-York and a wealthy and influential citizen in Croatia. He is evidently on good terms with his Honor, the Mayor of Polanec.

THE HISTORY OF A NOTED BURGLAR.

INSPECTOR McLAUGHLIN TELLS OF THE CRIMES

OF FRANK DAVIS—A DENIAL THAT HE THREW HIMSELF TO KILL HIMSELF.

Police Inspector McLaughlin said yesterday that he had obtained an accurate account of the criminal history of Frank Davis, alias Shocher, the burglar who was caught on Thursday morning in Fifty-sixth-st. Davis had stolen articles from the houses of several wealthy New-Yorkers recently. After serving a term of four years in an Illinois prison, the Inspector said, Davis went to Philadelphia. He was arrested in that city for a midnight burglary on August 29, 1876. He was convicted and sent to prison for four years. At that time Davis gave his name as A. H.

Williams. On the night of April 13, 1880, he was caught in another burglary in Philadelphia. He tried to shoot the policeman who arrested him.

Then he gave his name as Maurice Williams. He was convicted again and sent to prison for five years.

When he was discharged from prison again he went to

Jersey and committed a series of midnight burglaries in the fashionable district of that city. His work made him known to the police as "the Hill burglar."

He was caught on August 2, 1885, and two months later he was convicted under the name of William

Johnson and sentenced to hard labor in Sing Sing Prison for ten years. The usual commutation for good behavior was granted in his case and he was discharged from the prison about eighteen months ago.

After Davis was locked up at the Central Office yesterday morning he told the doorman that he had swallowed some pieces of tin, which he had tried to commit suicide, and that he had wanted to commit suicide. Police Surgeon Cook was called to examine the prisoner later, and he said that Davis was lying. There was nothing the matter with his stomach, Dr. Cook said, and his pulse and temperature were normal. If the man had swallowed anything injurious, the surgeon said, the fact would have been made apparent by an increase of temperature, and by changes in the heart pulsations. Inspector

McLaughlin thought the man had resorted to the ruse in the hope of being sent to a hospital, from which he could make his escape. Davis repeated his story about the tin when he was taken to the hospital, when he was a prisoner in the Tombs. He said also that he had tried to shoot himself when he was arrested. Inspector McLaughlin said that Davis was a tricky criminal, to whom lying came easy, and he was trying to create some sympathy for himself. The fact was that Davis tried to shoot the detective who arrested him on Thursday morning, and the detective had knocked the burglar down and disarmed him, the Inspector said.

connection with the orthopedic department of the Post-Graduate Hospital, in Twentieth-st. These afflicted children require great care to aid them in re-therefore greatly needed, and may be sent to Mr.

THE CHARGES AGAINST DR. D. C. POTTER

AN EX PARTE COUNCIL MAY BE CALLED BY HIS

OPONENTS.

The trouble in the Baptist Tabernacle at Second-and Tenth-st. is to be investigated by a council composed of representatives from the churches in the Southern New-York Baptist Association. The Rev.

Dr. D. C. Potter, against whom certain charges were recently made, seems to be supported by a majority of the congregation. If their action at the meeting held on Friday night can be taken as a criterion, Resolutions were introduced at that meeting by introduction against Dr. Potter and were voted by a vote of 77 to 2. Three resolutions were then introduced by Dr. Potter, and were unanimously carried.

Deacon John B. Howell, who is opposed to Dr. Potter, introduced the resolutions which were lost. The first one was that a lawyer be appointed to represent

Mr. Putnam, recently the assistant pastor, at all sessions of the investigating committee. When this was lost he introduced another, which was that the pastor of the church should name six men not members of the church, and that Mr. Putnam should do the same, and that they together name the thirtieth men, and that all the charges and differences in the church be taken out of the hands of the investigating
